

Kai-Wen Huang

Faculty, Department of Surgery & Hepatitis Research Center
Director & CEO, Centre of Mini-invasive Interventional Oncology
National Taiwan University Hospital
CEO, Center of Functional Image and Interventional Therapy,
National Taiwan University, Taiwan

Professor, Graduate Institute of Clinical Medicine,
College of Medicine, National Taiwan University, Taiwan

Professor [Honorary], Imperial College London, UK

Biography

Kai-Wen Huang is the Professor of surgical oncology in Imperial College London and Director of Centre of Mini-invasive Interventional Oncology of the National Taiwan University Hospital and Graduate Institute of Clinical Medicine in Taipei, Taiwan.

He received his MD degree, PhD degree, and his specialty training in Surgery at the Medical School of the National Taiwan University. In 2007, he was a research fellow in Tokyo and Nagoya, Japan. Dr. Huang has been actively involved in basic, clinical and translational research in botanic medicine, interventional oncology, surgical oncology, nanomedicine and gene therapy. He has published more than 100 peer-reviewed articles in these areas. He received the “Ta-You Wu Memorial Award” from the National Science Council of Taiwan. Dr. Huang is an active member of the Society of Interventional Oncology (SIO) and Asian Pacific Association for the Study of the Liver (APASL). He has served on the editorial boards of several SCI journals. He is also the founder and board member of Asian Conference on Tumor Ablation (ACTA). In addition, Dr. Huang is the current president of Asia-Pacific Academia of Mini-invasive Intervention and Oncology (APAIO) and President of Taiwan Academy of Tumor Ablation.

---