

Yi Wang

Chief Physician and Director, Department of Urology,
Peking University Shougang Hospital, Wu Jieping Urology Center, China

Biography

Professor Yi Wang is a urologist at Peking university Shougang hospital Wu Jieping urology center. He is director and chief of department of urology. As a research fellow at okayama university hospital, Japan, during 2010-2011, dedicated in the research of gene treatment of prostate cancer. As a scholar at northwestern university, USA, during 2011-2012, he mainly worked on minimally invasive surgery of renal cancer. His research interests include urological neoplasms and prostatic disorders. He is good at endourology such as laparoscopic surgery of renal tumor and transurethral resection of prostate. He has authored more than 50 original scientific manuscripts, 3 book chapters and reviews in urology. His paper has been cited by the latest version of "Campbell-Walsh's Urology, 11th". What's more, he has Chaired or participated in 5 national or provincial level research funds. He has been awarded 3 times Prize in ministry level that related to benign prostatic hyperplasia and renal tumor. Recently, he worked in retroperitoneal laparoscopic and ultrasonic-guided microwave ablation for complex renal tumor and microwave ablation assisted retroperitoneal laparoscopic partial nephrectomy for renal tumor. Besides being named a Fellow of the Committee of Minimally Invasive Therapy in Oncology, Chinese Anti-Cancer Association, he is also a Member of Andriatics & Urogenital Tumor Committee of Beijing Anticancer Association and Expert Committee of Northern China Prevention and Cure of Urological Lithiasis. And Member of the Standing Committee of the professional committee of minimally invasive and interventional oncology of the world Chinese Association of oncologists.

Clinical Expertise:

He is professional in urological neoplasms, prostatic disorders and andriatics, and also good at endourology such as transurethral resection of prostate, laparoscopic surgery, et al. 50 articles were published in national professional journals.

He have participated many researches and Third Prize in ministry level, and has been awarded two times.
